LOOKING ONE WAY AND FORING AN-OTHER

The telegraph brings the report of an interwith Mr J B Williams, one of the sev eral vice presidents of the Northern Paping rail road company, in which there is an effort to been Tacoma and disparage Portland. Mr Williams speaks for that ring within the man agement of the Northern Pacific which has a private interest in promoting the fortunes of acoma, and his talk, with such other similar talk put forth from time to time, is designed to stimulate the market for Tacoma towa ions With the faction represented by Mr Williams the successful management of the Northern Paoine milroul is a sec-endary consideration, entirely subord and to to the private in rest organized under the name of he Teoria Land companname of he Teoma Land company.
This talk is in interesting contrast with the generances given to the tox ness men of Port lend by Freedeat Harris and First Vio-President Orices during recent results here. C nestering this fact with the exaggerations of Mr. villams's statements, we cannot escape the inpression that the second vice-president doesn't allogether know what he is talking about However this will not detract from the value of Mr Williams's expression as an advertising card It strikes us that the Northern Pacific lates

SHEEP AND WOOL

Sheep husbandry is the one general productive industry which surely pays in Oregon With wool, as with wheat and hops, seasons vary, but there is always some profit, while the pusinoss in a general sense is prospecus. The pearly production of wool in this state and Washington territory is ab fut 12,000,000 pounds. This year it was about 13,000,000 pounds, which, yielding to the growers an average of 15 cents per pound. brought mio the country a lump same of about $2,000,000 This amount, while by no means all profit to the growers, is all profit to the state inco there is not, as in wheat production and salmon packing, a large outlay for materials, machinery, etc. The whole of the moome from wool remains in the country. But for this source of income our rural population who now d no profit in wheat, little in general exce and no proper in wheat, man in govern each and only a casual and uncertain return from dairy and orchard, would find times bard in-

At the beginning of the steep industry these other ranges, gave to the growers of Western and Soule trul Oregon an advance of from two to ten cents per pound whose the common price, for their product. It might be supposed that :: cometances so fortunate would be turned to the best incount, but on the contarty they seem to have made growers careless. As a rule the wool from Suthern and Western Oregon comes to market uncle in and ill packed. while the quality has deteriorated through long has advanced quite as strangely in a regio basing fewer advantages. Fastern oregon and Washington now furnish three-fourths of the wool product of the country. The climate of the Columbia river basin is hot in summer and cold in winter, the range is not nearly so good for sheep as that of the Whitamette and Lunp qua valleys and the prevaiting alkall is a disadvantage in wool growing, but in spite of these circum stances he wool product is constantly increasing in quantity and improving in quality. It is a striking evidence of the energy and intelligence of the people. Sheep husbandry is carried on there, as it should be, as an exclusive business Plocks are carefully lended, and there is con-stant infusion of new blood. These facts account for an improvement which has ad-ranced the price of lastern Oregon wool and well-nigh obliterated the prejudica against it.

It has been demonstrated over and over again that wool growing to be highly successful and profitable must be carried of as a special busi-sess by men intelligent in meth d and energotic in performance. Carried on as an incident of a general fe ming business it is never pleasant and rarely profitable. It is a remarkable fact that in the W liamette valley, from whence we hear the complaint that wheat growing does not

Wou do to be a little more decent, as well as much more hon est, for the managers of the company to unite on a policy and not have quite so many stories for the public.

SBREI AND WOOL

Sheep husbandry is the one general productive industry which surely pays in Oregon. With wool, as with wheat and bops, seasons vary, but there is always some profit while the business there is always some profit while the business in a general sense is prosperous. The pearly production of wool in this state and Washington territory is about 13,000,000 pounds. This year is was about 13,000,000 pounds, which yealding to the growers an average of 15 cents per pound, brought into the country a lump sum of about $2,000,000. This amount, while by no means all profit to the growers is all profit to the state since there is not as in whest production and dince there is not as in wheat production and salmon packing a large outlay for materials, machinery, etc. The whole of the income from wood remains in the country. But for the area of income our rural population who now find no profit in wheat, little in general sock and only a casual and uncerta a return from dairy and orchard, would find times hard in

land and East Portland, Matter that Promises Mutual Benefit to Both Hand Cars for the Barrow Gauge Other East Bide Items

There is a growing sentiment in East Portland Just now in favor of the consolidation of the east and west cities of the Williamette Many leading citizens of the east side some of whom have herotoldre antagonized the idea of union now express themselves in tayor of the coalition There's much to be said in affirmation of the proposition. Your reporter has had occasion to converse upon nemserves in lawor of the coalition There is much to be and in affirmation of the proposition. Our reporter has had occasion to converse upon all subject with a number of citizens becently and a douvinced from the result of such interviews has agitation of the subject will be entirely in or fer. If current talk may be taken as a gauge of utility opinion there is at this time a prepondernose of popular sentiment in tayor of the consoliation. First it the order of pro-union arguments attend the apparant richal hundress of two dities twins by historie with a subject of the ref.
